One day, Frog and Fly were playing in the forest when they came across a big, juicy worm. Frog wanted to eat the worm, but Fly wanted to keep it as a pet. They argued about it for a while, but finally, they decided to share the worm.

Frog and Fly continued their adventure, and they came across many other interesting creatures. They met a wise old owl, a funny squirrel, and a grumpy badger. But no matter who they met, Frog and Fly always stuck together.

One day, Frog and Fly were playing in the meadow when they saw a big, black cloud. The cloud was moving towards them quickly, and it was starting to rain. Frog and Fly ran for cover, but it was too late. They were both soaked to the bone.

Frog and Fly were cold and miserable. They huddled together for warmth, and they waited for the rain to stop. But the rain just kept coming. Frog and Fly started to get scared. They didn't know what to do.

Suddenly, Frog had an idea. He remembered a cave that he had seen earlier. He told Fly about the cave, and they decided to go there for shelter.

Frog and Fly found the cave, and they went inside. The cave was dark and damp, but it was also warm and dry. Frog and Fly were so relieved to be out of the rain.

Frog and Fly stayed in the cave for several days. They ate the food that they had brought with them, and they told each other stories. They also made friends with the other animals who lived in the cave.

When the rain finally stopped, Frog and Fly said goodbye to their new friends and left the cave. They were so happy to be back in the sunshine.

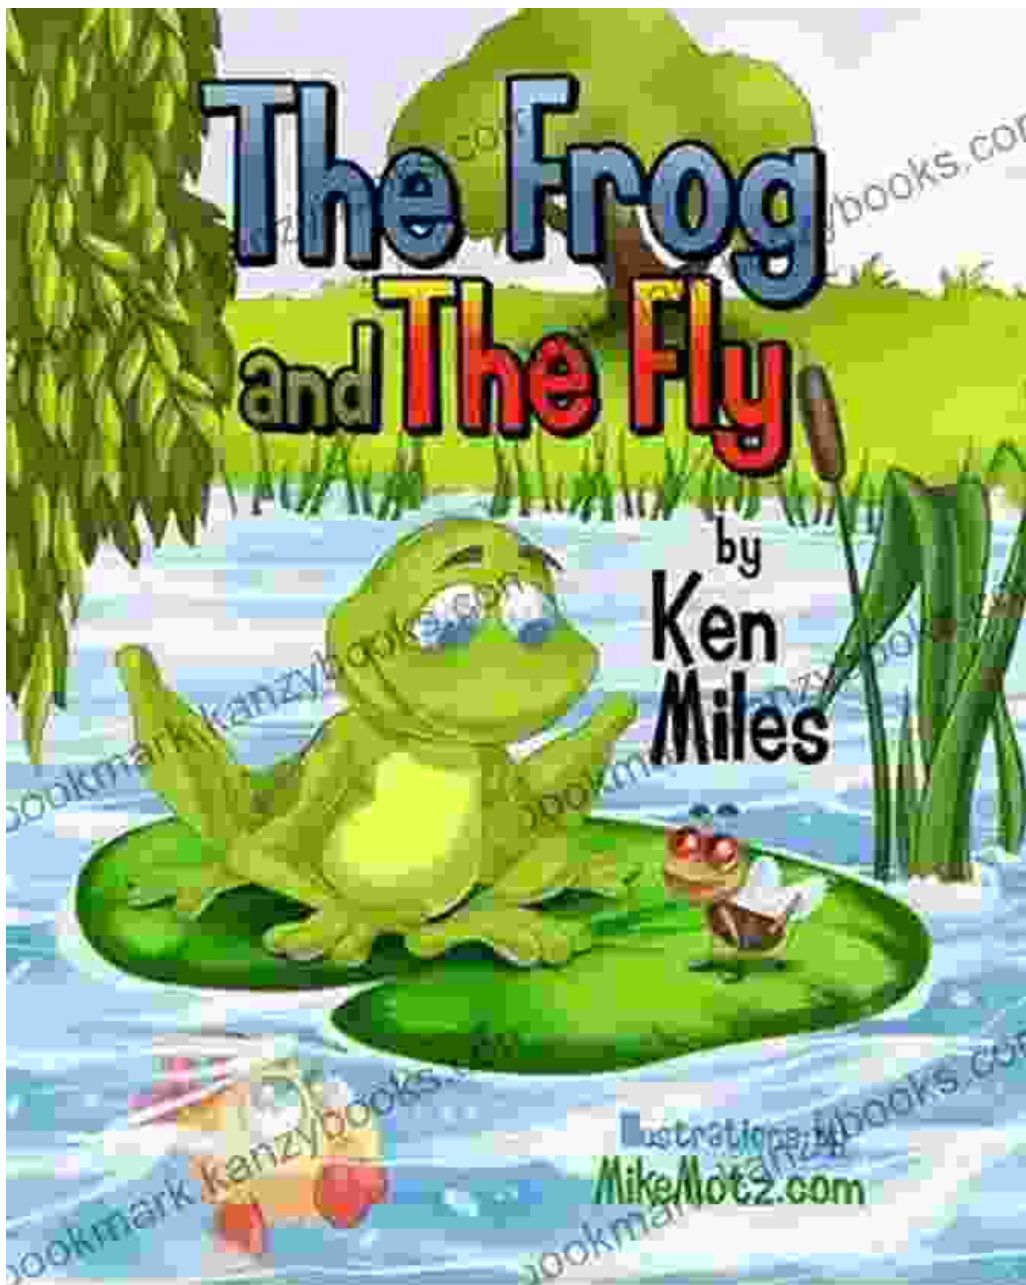

Frog and Fly continued their adventure, and they had many more adventures together. They learned to appreciate each other's differences, and they became even closer friends.
