Australian artist Liz McKay tells Janice Seow how music, cinema, architecture and romantic rendezvous inspire her work

BY JANICE SEOW

When I first met Liz McKay, she was sitting in a room that looked like a gallery. The walls were covered in her artwork, which was a mix of abstract and figurative. She was wearing a black top and had a warm, inviting smile. We talked for hours about her work and the inspiration behind it. She mentioned how much she loved music, cinema, architecture and romantic rendezvous. It was clear that these things were a big part of her life and her art.

McKay's work is a beautiful blend of different influences. She has a strong sense of rhythm and melody, which is evident in her use of color and form. Her artwork is both visually striking and emotionally resonant. It's a testament to her talent and her ability to create a unique and compelling body of work. I'm excited to see what she has in store for the future.
